Lincoln, Nebraska – The Medical Cannabis Commission is requesting input from cannabis product manufacturers in a listening session to aid the Commission in finalizing regulations related to manufacturing licensing. The Commission will hold the listening session at its upcoming public meeting on Tuesday, December 2nd at 1:00 PM. At this meeting, the Commission will host invited potential product manufacturers, who will give input on product manufacturing for each type of cannabis product in the regulations. The Commission reserves the right to ask questions after the speaker's opening.

In preparation for the listening session, the Commission is requesting potential speakers email the Commission with the following information:

- Name, contact information, and any affiliations with a cannabis business;
- Any experience as a product manufacturer of medical or related products;
- Any cannabis-specific experience in product manufacturing;
- If you have cannabis-specific experience in the product manufacturing industry, then specify the types of products on which you can offer insight; and
- Any additional information you think the Commission would appreciate knowing in finalizing the manufacturing regulations.

Each invited speaker should be prepared to discuss best practices for ensuring patient safety in the manufacturing process for each type of cannabis product listed in the regulations. Each invited speaker will have three minutes to deliver opening remarks about their expertise in the product manufacturing industry and best practices for manufacturing cannabis. The Commission aims to have a diverse group of product manufacturers speak to help the Commission in finalizing regulations with precise industry standards.

Any manufacturer that anticipates submitting an application for a Nebraska product manufacturers license may submit a request to present at the upcoming meeting no later than 5:00 P.M. on Tuesday, November 25, 2025, via email to mcc.contact@nebraska.gov.

The Commission will select and notify invited speakers by Monday, December 1st. Any potential product manufacturer is welcome to submit materials to the Commission in advance of the meeting.
